STATEMENT of Unavoidable Delay related to the following Patents which have AUG 3 1 2005 expired:

Ci i ion o

I am one of the patent principals for the above patents. The unavoidable delay was due to our company going into bankruptcy and due to my personal medical situation.

The patents were filed under Enfish Technology (formerly Dex Information Systems), which was subsequently (in November 2000) acquired by Enfish Corporation. Enfish Corporation filed bankruptcy (see attached) with debts exceeding $3 million in August, 2004. The assets of Enfish Corporation were sold in a public sale in June, 2004 to LJM Corporation, the company I formed with the other secured creditors to attempt to rescue our financial interest. Enfish had closed its offices and was only operating the web site from October, 2003. Enfish was unable to pay any operating expenses from approximately June, 2003, except for rent at the new location and incidentals. The employees were all working for deferred compensation while we attempted to find a financing solution for the company, which unfortunately failed.

At the same time, in May, 2003, I was diagnosed with an invasive breast cancer and had to undergo surgery and chemotherapy that extended with subsequent surgeries throughout 2004. I was distracted from the details of the business during this time, and this contributed to the unavoidable delay.

I did not realize until I finally met with the former patent counsel, and acquired the patent records which were in their offices in DC, that we were out of date on these three patents. I am filing for reinstatement and personally making these payments for these patents which we invested significant funds in developing (over several million dollars). It would represent a significant financial loss not to have these patents reinstated.

Please call me at 626 675 8541 with any questions regarding this statement. I am very happy to furnish complete financial records to substantiate all of these points.

Sincerely yours,

Lower &
